

Sponsor Event Information

Where are our shipped boxes?

All sponsors were directed to ship items to the McKimmon Center. Volunteers will help locate and place any shipped items on sponsor tables the morning of the event. If you are missing boxes, please contact the person at your company who shipped them to verify they were delivered to the McKimmon Center. They should have been labeled with DevOpsDays and your sponsor name. The McKimmon center staff will also help verify if the package was signed for. The shipping center is past room two through the double doors, and to the right.

Where is the agenda?

You also should have a copy on your table. You can also find it at <https://devopsdays.org/events/2026-raleigh/program>.

Do Sponsors get swag bags and t-shirts?

Only after our attendees have received them. We will offer sponsors items around lunch time on day two.

How do we get attendee names?

DevOpsDays events do not give out attendee names or provide badge scanners as a policy. There is more information on from the main .org site about attendee information. However, the Raleigh event puts together a sponsor passport in which attendees are encouraged to visit each sponsor table, have meaningful conversations, and get a stamp. Attendees who get signatures from every sponsor are eligible for raffle prizes at the end of the event (must be present to win). In past years, more than half of the attendees have participated.

If you would like to capture names at your table, you may do so with their [attendees] permission. Sponsors often do a separate raffle with desirable items. We also allow sponsors to announce their winner at the end of day two during our closing remarks. Please be ready and at the stage at 3:45pm on day two if you would like to announce your winner on stage.

We are platinum sponsors. How do we know when to give our 3-minute pitch to attendees?

Sponsors typically have the full attention of attendees between the morning keynotes. We will need the name of the person speaking prior to the event. Organizers will be in touch with you before and during the event to finalize your time slot. This is a time between speakers, so short and sweet is good. You will not have access to the monitors to display any information. Please have your representative by the stage at least 5 minutes before your slotted time.

2026 Platinum Sponsor Times: TBD

When and how do we send our booth items back?

At the close of the event, when the last keynote is on stage (around 3:00pm this year), you may pack up your items and put them on the shipping cart provided by the conference. The shipping cart is given to the McKimmon Center shipping center and they will have standard Fedex and UPS Ground pickups the next day. We will have limited packing tape available, so if you have it, please bring it. You will need to print and bring your own return labels. If you need to print them, you can do so at the McKimmon Center print center for a fee. You are responsible for scheduling a pickup for anything other than FedEx Ground or UPS Ground. (Please note: If your sponsorship is not paid, we will not let you set up your table. Please check with your accounting team to make sure any invoice or credit card payment has been made.)

Promotion

Sponsor Event Information

We will be mentioning your company as much as possible on our social media accounts. Please follow, connect, or subscribe on our platforms as well and share your memories from the event.

Twitter: @DevOpsDaysRDU

LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/company/devopsdays-raleigh/>

YouTube: <https://www.youtube.com/@devopsdaysraleigh7250>

Contact

Your primary point of contact during the event will be Jeremy Neff. His cell phone is 570.441.8875, and he will be in attendance. However, if you have any questions or concerns, please reach out to volunteers at the registration to see if they can help you quicker. Any emails should be sent to raleigh@devopsdays.org so organizers can respond as quickly as possible.

DevOpsDays.Org Code of Conduct

All participants in DevOpsDays events are required to follow and abide the code of conduct set forth by DevOpsDays Org. Any participant(s) who do not, may be asked to leave the conference. The code of conduct can be found here:

<https://devopsdays.org/events/2022-raleigh/conduct>

Sponsor Checklist and Deadlines:

- Sponsor information form submitted (this is done if you've signed a sponsor agreement)
- Company logo(s) submitted - 200x200 pixel - .png format and .eps format
- Sponsorship payment completed - you will not be allowed to set up your table if you haven't paid
- March 31 - Register Attendees (see "How do I register our attendees" above)
- April 20 - Pre-order any monitors or extra A/V equipment (see "Can we rent a monitor?" above)
- April 27 - Bag inserts delivered to Cary, NC (see "Where and when do we send our bag inserts? above)
- April 27 - Platinum sponsors ONLY - name and contact info of company representative speaking submitted to Katie Cothran
- April 27-29 - Booth and conference collateral delivered to McKimmon Center (see "Where and when do we send our booth items?")
- May 1 - If you're giving away a prize independent of the conference door prizes, please be ready to do so during closing remarks. This should be at approximately 3:00pm

If you are a sponsor who joined late, please complete all the items on the checklist that are past due ASAP. If you have any questions, please the organizers at raleigh@devopsdays.org.